

Making Raisins

Supplies:

- grapes
- sunlight

1. Pick a couple of handfuls of grapes and rinse them clean. When they are clean carefully set them out on a paper towel on top of a plate. Your grapes are now ready to be left in the sun. Place them in a window that receives lots of sunlight.

2. Check on our grapes/raisins every day, sometimes multiple times each day if you wish. Keep an observation chart full of drawings of the progress of the raisins.

3. After almost two weeks you should have plumb, juicy raisins.
